

Gravitating toward Greatness

In the fall of 2013, Pearl River Community College opened its doors for the 105th year of service to the citizens of Mississippi. As Mississippi's first two-year institution of higher learning, Pearl River has been a leader in providing quality and innovative educational opportunities. A century of service and providing opportunities for those who desired to seek higher education has given the institution a special place in the history of our state.

This school year has provided PRCC with an opportunity to showcase its Poplarville campus in a big way.

It began on Sept. 24 with the first event at the Ethel Holden Brownstone Center for the Arts. It was a grand-opening night for superlatives to describe the building and the Mississippi Symphony Orchestra's performance alike.

Concert-goers left the $10.4 million center saying, "great ... incredible ... awesome .. fantastic."

"It's excellent," said Poplarville City Alderman Byron Wells. "I am so impressed with this facility and so proud it's in Poplarville, Miss."

PRCC broke ground on the center almost two years ago to replace and augment the Moody Hall auditorium destroyed by Hurricane Katrina.

"The reaction from the guests and the orchestra and conductor was the highlight for me," said Archie Rawls, PRCC's fine arts and communication chair and director of the Brownstone Center. "Seeing everybody enjoy it so much and seeming to be truly appreciative that we were able to have something like this in Poplarville and at Pearl River ... I'm so very excited about the great response from the community and what it means for the future."

Approximately $4.5 million of the construction cost came from the estate of Ethel Holden Brownstone, a native of the Whitesand community and a 1931 high school graduate of Pearl River County Agricultural High School and Junior College.

A portrait of Ethel Holden Brownstone and her husband, Lucien, hangs in the lobby as does one of Martin T. and Dolores Smith for whom the auditorium is named. The college Board of Trustees named the auditorium for them in recognition of their many years of service to the college and the community, said Dr. William Lewis, PRCC president.

Instructors received many honors. Karen Bond and Dr. Ryan Ruckel represented PRCC at the Lamplighters Conference. English instructor Greg Underwood was named Humanities Teacher of the Year.

The Spirit of the River marching band made PRCC alumnus Jimmy Buffett a part of the halftime show with a taped narration.

In October, renowned physicist Dr. Michio Kaku dazzled a Brownstone Center crowd with his look into the future. Former NFL star Jeffrey Posey headlined a class of five inductees into the Sports Hall of Fame during Homecoming, when student Melissa Dragon was crowned queen.

The Board of Trustees made history by approving a tobacco-free policy at the school, which went into effect Jan. 1, 2014.

The men's soccer team successfully defended its MACJC state title while the women's team made it to the championship game. Player Mike Allizzo made first-team All-American while another former soccer player, 22-year-old Jeremay Anderson, became the youngest member elected to the Mississippi House of Representatives.

Meanwhile, PRCC continued to make headlines on the national scene as an institution.

Create a Career website ranked PRCC as 23rd on its December 2013 list of the 25 Best Community Colleges in the United States.

Weeks later, PRCC was named one the country's top 150 community colleges eligible to compete for the 2015 Aspen Prize for Community College Excellence.

The eligibility marks the third time the Aspen Institute College Excellence Program has recognized PRCC for the prize, which carries with it $1 million in funds.

"Pearl River Community College has been extremely fortunate to have been recognized for the third year in a row as being eligible to compete for the Aspen Prize for Community College Excellence," said Dr. William Lewis, PRCC president. "This honor is afforded to the top ten percent of community colleges in America. This places Pearl River in a unique position among community colleges nationwide. It is our belief that this is a most significant reflection on the quality of the product produced by our institution."

The prize, awarded every two years, is the nation's signature recognition of high achievement and performance among America's community colleges and recognizes institutions for exceptional outcomes in student learning, certificate and degree completion, employment and earnings, and high levels of access and success for minority and low-income students.

Mississippi Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Crafton Beck were the opening performance for the Brownstone Center. Beck lauded the room's acoustics and design.

Opening night crowds swelled until there were no seats left. The first night saw a standing-room-only crowd.

Guitar students under the direction of guitar instructor Treavor Hunt entertain crowds waiting in the lobby preceding the "Christmas at the River" concert.

The PRCC Singers, The Voices, the Spirit of the River Marching Band, the String of Pearls, the PRCC Drum Line, and the Jazz Cats presented a variety-type Christmas Program that brought the standing-room-only crowd to its feet.

December also marked the opening of the $3.6 million Career Education Center at the Forrest County Center, housing the electronics technology, welding and heating, air conditioning, ventilation and refrigeration maintenance technology programs.

That was followed with the January opening of Lamar Hall, the $3.6 million facility that houses up to 60 male students in a two-story building constructed around an open-air courtyard.

Chynna Coglan won the Miss PRCC Wildcat Scholarship Pageant and a new nursing honor society was formed. Both men's basketball team's finished with winning records. Still on students, four were named to the Phi Theta Kappa

All-Mississippi Academic Team. They are Jansen Owen of Carriere and Tiffany Tucker of Diamondhead from the Poplarville campus and Sonya Conerly and Tiffany Gragg, both of Hattiesburg and students at the Forrest County Center.

Stephanie Lee is advisor for the lota Mu chapter. Dr. Ryan Ruckel, Dr. Terri Ruckel and Doug Donohue are Beta Tau Gamma advisors.

Phi Theta Kappa also honored Dr. Cecil Burt, vice president for Forrest County operations, with the Distinguished College Administrator Award. And Jana Causey, assistant vice president for at Forrest County, received the Alumni Award of Appreciation.

When the Ethel Holden Brownstone Center for the Arts opened in September 2013, Archie Rawls beamed with pride and relief.

Rawls oversaw its design and construction after years of talking about the need for a new performance venue and is its first director.

"I just felt like it was something I wanted to do," he said. "It was something I had seen from concept to completion and wanted to be a major part of and was blessed to be offered the opportunity."

In recognition of his 35 years at PRCC as a student and an instructor, the 2014 Wildcat yeardisk is dedicated to Rawls, chair of the Department of Fine Arts and Communication as well as Brownstone director.

Rawls grew up across West North Street from Pearl River Junior College in a 1920s-era house built by his grandparents. He played saxophone at Poplarville High School and was just 15 when he started playing guitar with Motivation, a rock-and-roll band that included a couple of Pearl River students.

After high school graduation in 1975, Rawls came to Pearl River where he played in the Wildcat Band and sang in the Pearl River Singers. He graduated in 1977 and left Poplarville briefly. Rawls earned a bachelor's degree in music education from the University of Southern Mississippi in December 1979 and took a job as assistant band director at Poplarville High School for the 1980-81 school year.

He and his new wife, Frances, were eating Sunday dinner at his parents' home that summer when Dr. Marvin White, then president of Pearl River, knocked on the door. The college band director had quit just two weeks before band camp, and White asked Rawls to fill in for football season. Poplarville school officials agreed to let him work for the college as long as he fulfilled his high school duties.

"So I started in the fall of '80 at the ripe age of 22," Rawls said. "I only thought I was going to be here for a semester. There were some students in the college band who had been in high school band with me; it was a little strange. We made it through but it was tough."

Although the semester was strange and tough, White hired Rawls as the full-time band director in January of 1981.

"They kind of took a leap of faith," Rawls said. "I couldn't teach any classes because I didn't have a master's degree."

He named the marching band Spirit of the River in 1982, finished his master's degree in 1983 and was named department chair in 1985, not yet 30 years old. The department was just three people - Rawls handling all band and instrumental programs and teaching music theory; Mark Malone directing choral groups and teaching voice, music literature and appreciation and Madeline Lee teaching piano and music appreciation

The college grew, the music programs more than doubled by the mid-1980s and the threeperson faculty was augmented with part-time and adjunct instructors. During that time period, Rawls began incorporating the String of Pearls as a component of the band.

"We started putting them on the field all the time," he said. "Now they're an integral part and we feel like we were kind of trend setters. One of the reasons I initially did it was to make the band look bigger, have more people on the field."

Rawls and Malone started the RiverRoad showchoir program in 1985.

Mr. Rawls directs the Jazz Cats at the 2013 Christmas at the River Christmas concert held in the Ethel Holden Brownstone Center for the Arts.

"Archie Rawls' dedication, expertise and influence have made a lasting impact on the Fine Arts and Communication Department at Pearl River Community College," said Malone, now a music professor at William Carey University. "From his days as a student through his years of directing bands, teaching music theory, coaching instrumentalists in applied lessons, as well as encouraging the department to grow from three faculty members and several music majors to a multi-faceted staff and student body, Mr. Rawls has been a guiding light to students, faculty and the community. Not only a wise leader and confidant, Archie Rawls became my good friend."

Rawls hired Dr. Kyle Hill in 1992 as assistant band director in charge of all percussion classes and programs and to teach theory and music appreciation.

"In the fall of 2000, he became director of the marching band," Rawls said. "I was still the overall director of bands. I stepped down as director of bands when Mark retired in 2006. It was time for it to Although Rawls turned the Spirit of the River over to Hill, he kept his spot as director of The JazzCats.

"I really enjoyed doing it," Rawls said. "It kind of fit my skill set a little better and Kyle had his plate loaded."

Numerous students have followed Rawls into the music education field, extending his influence far beyond PRCC.

"Mr. Rawls is one of the biggest musical influences I've ever had, both as a player and as a teacher," said Kody Killens, assistant band director at West Jones High School and a 2005 graduate of PRCC. "His natural musicianship and his teaching ability have set the bar very high, giving me something I can strive to duplicate. I know for a fact that I wouldn't be where I am today had it not been for the years I've spent learning from him."

Almost from the beginning, Rawls recognized the need for a performance venue that would be bigger and more modern than the Moody Hall auditorium.

"Moody Hall had always been kind of inadequate and had some shortcomings we just could not overcome." Rawls said. "It was a second floor auditorium with no elevator access and no handicapped access. The seating capacity was just over 400. The stage was small. There was no support area at all.'

A new auditorium was an ongoing conversation.

"I remember my first day at PRCC in 1992, as he gave me a tour of the facilities, he talked about the need for a new auditorium then," Hill said. "Moody Hall was a great sounding room for band but very inadequate with space for the events held on campus."

When Dr. William Lewis became president in 2000, the auditorium also was high on "The first day that we met, we both talked about the need for a performing arts center on our campus," Rawls said. "We had been working slowly but diligently toward that goal ever since."

Ethel Holden Brownstone, a graduate of Pearl River County Agricultural High School, left the college approximately $4 million when she died in 1996. A prolonged legal battle kept the funds tied up until 2003. The PRCC Board of Trustees voted to use the money to build a performing arts center.

Hurricane Katrina in 2005 dealt Moody Hall a death blow, ripping the roof off and ruining everything inside. The Brownstone bequest, insurance, FEMA money and a grant from the Mississippi Arts Commission allowed Pearl River to build the state-of-the-art center.

"It's kind of like all the stars aligned," Rawls said. "We were able, because of the incredible gift, to take it on to another level as far as the finish and detail and technology. Just everything about it was taken to a higher level."

The center could be seen as the capstone of Rawls' career but he isn't making retirement plans yet.

"The thought does cross my mind more often now; it's been a busy couple of years," he said. "I've been so fortunate over the years that we have hired really, really great people in our department. I've got people that do whatever it takes to do the job. It doesn't matter if it's after 3 o'clock or the weekend. They're always willing to help and do what it takes to make it happen."

Pearl River has been much more than a job to her husband, Frances Rawls said.

"The impact that he's had on the students that have come through the band and the music department has been really important to him, that he's been able to touch so many lives," she said.

Frances Rawls, manager of PRCC bookstores, has worked at the college for 25 years.

Rawls again lives just across the street from PRCC - he and Frances moved into the house in 1990 when their children were young. Both kids attended PRCC and sang in RiverRoad; Jennifer also was in the band and the String of Pearls and Stephen was a band manager.

Jennifer, a pharmacist, and her husband, Lanny Beach, live in Petal and have two daughters—3-year-old Halli and Kate, two months old. Stephen is a NASA engineer at Stennis Space Center and lives in Carriere with his wife, Casey. She is PRCC's director of recruitment and orientation.
